

On Tuesday the 17th, police moved in on the Occupation. Southwark Council had obtained an Interim Possession Order for 77-105 Chartridge House, the block that we first occupied on the 31st of January.

Our callout drew many hundreds to resist the eviction, both from inside the Chartridge flats and outside on the estate. Despite the massive police presence, it took the police hours to gain entry to the block and we successfully managed to occupy 69-76 Chartridge. This is the adjoining block that was smashed up by Southwark Council vandals in a feeble attempt to stem the spread of the protest, but we continue.

Court papers have arrived: March 4, 10am in Lambeth court. Come support and fight the court.

We are in good spirits and thank all those who have shown solidarity. Security are present but insignificant and we continue to move freely. People can enter the occupation safely and we encourage everyone to come and visit.
